

Snow and Ice Treatment Map

Troutdale only averages about two inches of snow per year, but that doesn't mean roads aren't impacted when the flakes fall. Priority levels for snow and ice removal are subject to change based on weather conditions, road conditions, and other factors. Priority “A” and/or “B” roads may require continuing treatment to insure essential travel, delaying treatment of lower priority roads for an indefinite period of time.

The big question: if a big winter storm strikes, will my street be plowed? Check out our interactive map of snow and ice priority routes. You can also refer to Multnomah County's Snow And Ice Plan.
